

1. Do you agree that local authorities should be under a duty to ensure that food and drinks which they provide in their schools, including nurseries, meet defined nutrient standards?

Yes No

Comment (add separately if required)

2. Where children are attending independent schools, and where the provision of food and drinks are arranged or funded, by a local authority, should the food and drinks meet defined nutrient standards?

Yes No

Comment (add separately if required)

3. Should local authorities be under a duty to promote uptake of school meals in their schools, including free school meals?

Yes No

Comment (add separately if required)

4. Should local authorities be under a duty to ensure that those taking free school meals can do so anonymously, as far as is practicable?

Yes No

Comment (add separately if required)

5. Should local authorities have the power to provide children in local authority schools with free drinks, fruit, vegetables, bread or cereal based snacks, which meet defined nutrient standards?

Yes No

Comment (add separately if required)

6. Should there be a duty on Scottish Ministers and local authorities to endeavour to ensure that all local authority schools are health promoting schools?

Yes No

Comment (add separately if required)

7. Any other comments? (add separately if required)

« Previous | Contents | Next »

Page updated: Tuesday, May 2, 2006

7. The High School on Skye has inadequate facilities to cater for its school population. Most children have to leave the school premises and queue for long periods of time, often in appalling weather, to buy what food they can get in local shops. Some of these children catch a school bus as early as 7.00 am. to make their journey to school. They have no access to food until 1.00 or 1.30 after queuing. They may not even have access to fluid. 05/07/2006

<http://www.scotland.gov.uk/Publications/2006/05/02142249/3>