Teachers in Scotland, 2006

1 Introduction

- 1.1 This bulletin contains the latest data on teachers and support staff in publicly funded schools in Scotland, mainly derived from the latest annual staff census which took place in September 2006.
- 1.2 This is the fourth full annual staff census. Comparison of figures from these full censuses with data prior to 2003 may therefore be affected by the change in collection method.
- 1.3 Unless clearly stated as headcount, figures are always full-time equivalent.

2 Totals

- 2.1 The total number of teachers based in primary, secondary and special schools was 51,658, which is 1,141 more than in 2005. However, these numbers are partly affected by local authorities increasingly recording visiting specialists in the schools in which they teach, rather than as centrally employed. This will also affect other analysis in this publication.
- 2.2 There were a further 1,160 recorded as centrally employed visiting specialist teachers involved in similar roles but not based in schools. This is a decrease of 292 from 2005 and of 445 from the 2003 figure, due to the changes in recording described in 2.1 above.
- 2.3 In January 2006 there were also an estimated 1,666 teachers in the pre-school sector. Hence overall there were 54,484¹ teachers in 2006, an increase of 867 teachers from 2005.
- 2.4 There were a further 22,300 school based staff and 2,160 centrally employed staff identified in the staff census as providing support to the education system. Some of this information was collected differently this year and so may not be fully comparable with previous years.

3 Main Points

- 3.1 There were 23,501 teachers in primary schools (22,873 in 2005), giving a pupil teacher ratio of 16.3 (17.1 in 2005). Ninety-two per cent of teachers were female, a reduction from 2005.
- 3.2 There were 26,083 teachers in secondary schools (25,613 in 2005), giving a pupil teacher ratio of 12.0 (12.3 in 2005). Fifty-nine per cent of teachers were female, the same as in 2005.

- 3.3 There were 2,075 teachers in special schools (2,031 in 2005), giving a pupil teacher ratio of 3.4 (3.5 in 2005). Eighty-one per cent of teachers were female, a reduction from 2005.
- 3.4 The average (mean) age of teachers fell slightly from 43.9 to 43.6. There was an increase in the proportion of teachers aged under 40 (35 per cent compared to 33 per cent in 2005) and in those aged 55 or over (18 per cent compared to 17 per cent in 2007). The age profile shows a major peak at age 53, and increasing numbers in the late twenties.
- 3.5 The proportion of teachers who were male has dropped from 30 per cent in 1996 to 25 per cent in 2006, stable with last year's figure. In promoted posts the proportion who were male was 36 per cent (down from 37 per cent in 2005), with the figure being 29 per cent for head teachers and deputies (down from 30 per cent in 2005).
- 3.6 In primary schools there were 160 teachers whose main subject was physical education, 113 whose main subject was music and 76 whose main subject was art & design. There were 603 who gave learning support as their main subject, and 312 gave SEN related subjects.
- 3.7 In secondary schools, the largest numbers of teachers were in English (2,796) and maths (2,654), increases of seven per cent and six per cent respectively. Technical education was the subject with the highest proportion of male teachers (88 per cent), with home economics being nearly all female teachers. Music, drama and physical education teachers had the youngest average age, with additional support needs teachers being on average the oldest.
- 3.8 Where ethnic background data was given, 2.6 per cent of teachers were from non-UK, white backgrounds, and 1.1 per cent from other minority ethnic groups. In promoted posts the proportion was 1.6 per cent and 0.7 per cent respectively, though the minority ethnic group teachers have not, on average, been in the workforce for as long as white-UK teachers.
- 3.9 There were 131 teachers currently teaching Gaelic language (115 in 2005), 240 providing Gaelic medium education (207 in 2005), and 399 teachers reported being able to teach through the medium of Gaelic (379 in 2005).
- 3.10 There were 3,549 teachers in the probation induction scheme (2,730 in 2005), of which 1,808 were in primary schools and 1,741 were in secondary schools.
- 3.11 There were 3,906 students who graduated from initial teacher training in 2006, a 37 per cent increase compared to 2,849 in 2005. In primary, the proportion graduating through PGCE/PGDE has increased from 31 per cent in 1998 to 71 per cent in 2006.

BACKGROUND NOTES

1. The information in this publication for 2006 is derived from the 12th September 2006 staff census of all publicly funded primary, secondary and special schools. Information about centrally employed staff was also collected from local authorities.
2. Information relating to previous years is derived from the annual school census, which until 2003 contained summary information on teacher numbers.
3. Information from the census is used to inform policy making, particularly in modelling the teacher workforce to ensure adequate future supply of newly trained teachers, and for monitoring current policies and equality issues.

Coverage

4. The staff census covers all publicly funded schools in Scotland (local authority and grant-aided). Where a school has more than one department, for example a secondary school with a primary department, these are counted as separate schools. The census of independent schools is published separately, and from Tuesday 17th April will be available from the Scottish Executive website at <http://www.scotland.gov.uk/stats/bulletins/00578>
5. Since 2003 separate staff and pupil censuses have taken place. Results of the pupil census were published in "Pupils in Scotland, 2006", which is available on the Scottish Executive website at <http://www.scotland.gov.uk/stats/bulletins/00569>

Census consultation

6. The content of the staff census is considered in consultation with the Data Exchange in Education and Children's Services Group (DEECS). This group includes representatives from local authorities, teaching unions and headteachers associations, as well as staff from the Scottish Executive. The committee operates in the light of National Statistics guidelines, which restricts the department to collecting only the information that is required, at a level which is fit for purpose, whilst always trying to minimise the burden on data providers. Recommendations for changes to the census are made to DEECS through the Scottish Exchange of Educational Data (ScotXed) network.

Collection methods

7. The information required to complete the September 2006 staff census was collected electronically, through local authorities, from all publicly funded primary, secondary and special schools, as part of the ScotXed programme. The information is generally that stored on schools' management information systems, thus reducing the burden on schools.
8. ScotXed supports and promotes effective and secure data exchanges so that key partners in school education in Scotland can benefit from access to information to monitor and improve education services. Partners include: Local authorities, schools, the Scottish Qualifications Authority, HM Inspectorate of Education, Learning and Teaching Scotland and Scottish Executive Education Department. Further information, including specifications of the data exchanges, can be found at www.scotxed.net.

Definitions and Data quality

9. Tables in this publication cover publicly funded schools only, i.e. local authority and grant-aided schools.
10. Unless clearly stated as headcount, figures are always full-time equivalents. Where a teacher works in more than one school, this is counted as one person in the headcount. In years prior to 2003 the teacher would have been counted once from each school.
11. Due to the change in method of collection from 2003 onwards, and the various difficulties experienced with the first electronic census in 2003, caution must be taken in making comparisons with previous years. Past publications contain contradictory figures for some years. We have published here figures which we believe to be the most accurate.
12. In order to calculate the total number of teachers equivalent to the commitment to 53,000 teachers by 2007, it is necessary to sum
 - the total number of school based teachers
 - the total number of pre-school teachers
 - the change in centrally employed visiting specialist teachers since 2003The change in centrally employed is used because centrally employed staff were not included in the baseline figure for the number of teachers when the target was set. This definition was set out in the Spending Review Technical Notes in 2004.
13. Figures in this publication are reported on a different basis to those in the quarterly Public Sector Employment in Scotland publication. In particular, figures here do not count both those who are on sick leave and their replacement, but try to show the number of teachers working at a given time. The methodology in Public Sector Employment in Scotland is therefore more useful for considering payroll implications.
14. Figures for the special school sector are compiled from special schools only, and do not include teachers of special classes in mainstream schools. There would appear to be inconsistency between school and between local authorities in the reporting of special schools and special classes/units, as well as changes over the past few years. We therefore advise caution when comparing results with previous years and across local authorities.

A few authorities do not have special schools, and may fund places in neighbouring authorities for their pupils. Special schools includes those where there were no pupils based, but which received pupils based in other schools.
15. At September 2006 there was one grant-aided mainstream school, with primary and secondary departments, and seven grant-aided special schools.

Only partial information is collected from grant aided special schools. These schools are included in national totals, but are identified separately in the local authority level tables. In years prior to 2003 they were included within the local authority of their location.
16. New job grades were introduced in August 2003, which are used in this census. 415 teachers in the census reported being chartered teachers. However, data from the General Teaching Council showed that in October 2006 there were 335 teachers who had gained chartered teacher status. It is therefore assumed that the other teachers had only embarked on the course (of which there were over 3,200), or were being paid on the chartered teacher pay scale. All chartered teachers have been included in this publication as teacher grade.
17. The Teacher Induction Scheme, for newly qualified probationer teachers, was introduced in 2002. Probationers on the scheme have 70 per cent of the normal class contact time without this affecting their full time equivalence. Probationers are allocated to local authorities and monitored by the General Teaching Council for Scotland in partnership with the Scottish Executive, so numbers are held centrally. Census data identifying teachers on the probationer induction scheme fell short of these numbers, so in this publication only the centrally held figures are shown.

18. Teachers are asked to supply their main subject taught. Where numbers in a given subject are small these have been included with “other”.
19. For 2006 the maximum class contact time (CCT) was 22.5 hours for all sectors. Tables in this publication show CCT for part-time teachers grossed up to a full time post. For example, if a teacher with FTE of 0.5 had a CCT of 10.5 hours, this would appear as FTE 0.5 with 21 hours CCT as that is what their equivalent CCT would be if they were working full time.
20. Qualifications information for supply teachers is not required to be recorded on schools’ information systems. Data has therefore been scaled up from those individuals who returned details of qualifications with at least one teaching qualification. Scaling factors were 1.05 in primary, 1.16 in secondary, and 1.22 in special.
21. Information on GTC registration for secondary teachers show the total FTE for teachers registered to teach in each subject, and so will sum to a greater total than the number of teachers. About 40 secondary teachers did not return this data, so the subjects these teachers currently teach have been used instead.
22. The ethnicity and national identity categories were based broadly on those collected in the 2001 population census and were agreed following consultation. In choosing them it was necessary to balance the competing needs of not grouping different peoples together too much, while having large enough groups for valid analysis. Teachers were given the option of not disclosing their ethnicity. About 98 per cent of teachers disclosed their ethnic background, a large increase on previous years. Where “minority ethnic groups” are referred to, this includes all categories of ethnic background other than “white-UK” and “white-other”. Information was received for mainstream grant aided schools but has not been published here for disclosure reasons.
23. Roman Catholic approval means teachers have been approved as to their religious belief and character by representatives of the Roman Catholic church.
24. Supply teachers were separately identified as either covering a vacancy (and hence included in the total) or covering absence (and so not included to avoid double counting). In practice some schools may not have included the shorter term, sick absence cover staff in their returns, so figures for these may be an undercount.
25. Greater detail has been collected this year in centrally employed teachers. There were some differences in the way in which authorities deal with visiting specialists. In some cases these are considered as allocated to the schools where they teach, and have been included, with relevant partial FTE, in the school-level data. In other cases they are included in the centrally employed staff table. We are also aware that local authorities have changed procedures for reporting during recent years, so figures are not necessarily comparable.
26. More detailed categories were collected for support staff data this year. Caution is advised when comparing with previous years.

Disclosive data

27. For certain types of information, numbers less than five are deemed to be disclosive, and hence not published. Where figures have been removed they are replaced by a *. Other figures in the table may also be removed to stop a disclosive figure from being calculated from the total. Occasionally data swapping has taken place to avoid disclosure.

Rounding

28. All percentages and FTEs are rounded separately and breakdowns may consequently not sum to Scotland figures.

Symbols

29. The following symbols are used:

- . . = not available
- = nil or rounds to nil
- # = not applicable
- * = disclosive data

Other data

30. Some further data, for example some schools level data, will be made available on the Scottish Executive website www.scotland.gov.uk/stats. Ad-hoc tables are available on request.

SCOTTISH EXECUTIVE STATISTICAL SERVICES

Our aim

The aim of the Statistical Service is to provide relevant and reliable statistical information, analysis and advice that meet the needs of government, business and the people of Scotland.

Our Objectives

1. To ensure that all statistics work is relevant to meeting user needs by

- Improving the range of statistics and analysis we produce for users inside and outside of government (including for key cross cutting policy areas such as the economy, social justice, area regeneration, equality and rural issues)
- Reviewing and where practicable improving timeliness.
- Providing more statistics disaggregated by age, gender, ethnicity and other characteristics.
- Developing more data for small areas through the Neighbourhood Statistics project
- Maintaining comparability of statistics across the UK.

2. To make better use of our statistics by

- Contributing more directly to policy processes inside and where possible outside government. These include community planning, performance information, measurement of government targets, better policy making and modernising government objectives.
- Improving access to and presentation of data and analysis, through better use of the Web, improved publications and improved systems for holding and accessing background data.
- Improving the advice provided on statistics to Ministers and senior management within the Executive.

3. To develop the reliability and integrity of official statistics by

- Assuring and improving quality as an integral part of data collection and analysis and through regular reviews in line with National Statistics quality strategy.
- Developing statistical methods, systems and classifications
- Maintaining and promoting integrity through implementation of the National Statistics Code of Practice and related protocols.

4. To ensure the efficient and effective delivery of statistics products and services by

- Making full use of all sources including administrative sources.
- Minimising the burden on data providers through Survey Monitoring & Advice
- Ensuring value for money.
- Employing staff with the necessary skills and ensuring development of expertise amongst existing staff.
- Ensuring effective use of Information and Communications Technology.
- Managing, promoting and upholding the integrity of the statistics profession.

5. To plan effectively and work together by

- Producing and implementing an annual Scottish Executive Statistics Plan.
- Developing more co-ordinated working arrangements with other analytical services in and out of the Executive.
- Working with the rest of the Government Statistical Service to develop joint approaches/solutions where appropriate.
- Improving the involvement of users and providers, working on a partnership basis wherever possible.
