Good afternoon,

This might not be the sort of response that you are looking for, but I wondered if the Scottish Executive has thought of the act from the anti-social behaviour side.
The thing that worries me is that, if young smokers cannot smoke in the controlled atmosphere of a bar, they might take carry-outs to places in populated areas and cause misery for the residents, loud music, abusive language, etc.
Anti-social behaviour is a problem at the moment, we don't want it increasing.
