You would have to include your own smoking cessation products Nicorette etc. You would be regulating the production of steam. Would you regulate the use of kettles?

Comments

33. If you support national legislation, what should the penalty be for non-compliance?

Comments

34. If you do not support national legislation, what non-legislative measures could be taken to support enforcement of, and compliance with, the existing smoke-free grounds policies?

I would encourage the use of alternate such as e cigarettes, or other acceptable products. The NHS nor any other organisation nor country owns the air. If it were so every polluting airborne product would require the same legislation. Do e cigarettes actually pollute at all?

As a party to the World Health Organization's Framework Convention on Tobacco Control (FCTC), Scotland has an obligation to protect the development of public health policy from the vested interests of the tobacco industry. To meet this obligation, we ask all respondents to disclose whether they have any direct or indirect links to, or receive funding from, the tobacco industry. We will still carefully consider all consultation responses from the tobacco industry and from those with links to the tobacco industry and include them in the published summary of consultation responses.

I have no links to any vested interests. My doctorate is in biochemistry. I am an ex-smoker using e liquid as a cessation tool. I believe from personal experience that this is the most effective tool available. Regulation seems counter productive, dogmatic and foolish. They are not a tobacco product per se and no user I have met believes them to be so, only, it seems, regulators. For those wishing to stop smoking, the product offers an as near as possible smoking replacement but with much less harm. Whilst there may be some problems accepting this, a solution maybe for the government to embrace the opportunity to improve the health of the population (if that is indeed the intention) by including e cigarettes with its preferred, but less effective smoking cessation products (Nicorette, Aerosol nicotine etc, all of which are produced by vested interests), made available from pharmacies. Remember, you are questioning on the regulation of the production of steam! Prohibition famously in the USA increased the scope of the mafia. Regulating e cigarettes will lead to the increase of tobacco use. Good result? Regulation of advertising to discourage children using the product would seem fair, my assessment is that the young non smoker would find the products desperately uncool (their word not mine). Furthermore, I believe our ex UK prime minister and the current deputy prime minister were/are smokers. Role models? Please think pragmatism rather than dogma, sometimes the WHO are plain wrong.
