

I found a way out of forced marriage.
So can you.

For lots of people living in Scotland arranged marriages can be an accepted part of everyday life. But forcing someone to marry is not.

That's why legislation has been introduced to provide greater protection to victims of forced marriage. Forcing someone into marriage is now a criminal offence, and Forced Marriage Protection Orders can be taken out to prevent anybody from forcing you to marry against your will.

Advice, support and protection are available in complete confidence.
Call 0800 027 1234, or go to onescotland.org/forcedmarriage
for more information.

Scotland believes in equality.

one scotland
SCOTTISH GOVERNMENT

*I'll decide whom I marry.
No one else.*

For lots of people living in Scotland arranged marriages can be an accepted part of everyday life. But forcing someone to marry is not.

That's why legislation has been introduced to provide greater protection to victims of forced marriage. Forcing someone into marriage is now a criminal offence, and Forced Marriage Protection Orders can be taken out to prevent anybody from forcing you to marry against your will.

Advice, support and protection are available in complete confidence.
Call 0808 801 0327, or go to onescotland.org/forcedmarriage
for more information.

Scotland believes in equality.

one
scotland
SCOTTISH GOVERNMENT